Excerpt: .Grant, with more than three times that number, over and over again at Reams s Station, at the Crater, at Hatcher s Run and other points, battered the armor from which every blow recoiled. So Lee stood with a half-fed and half-clothed soldiery, composed largely of stripling youth and failing age, beating back his three-fold foe, freshly recruited for every fresh assault, and generously provided with the richest stores and most approved arms and munitions of war. Time forbids that I prolong the story; and this imperfect sketch is but a dim outline of that grand historic picture in which Robert Lee will ever stand as the foremost figure, challenging and enchaining the reverence and admiration of mankind, --the faint suggestion of that magnificent career which has made for him a place on the heights of history as high as warr rior s sword has...
