

The Browser's Ecstasy: A Meditation on Reading

By O'Brien, Geoffrey

Book Condition: New. Ships From Canada. New in new dust jacket. Sewn binding. Cloth over boards. 224 p. Audience: General/trade. Book Description From one of the most original writers now at work, an expansive, learned, and utterly charming reverie on what it means to be lost in a book Louis Menand, writing in The New Yorker, called Geoffrey O'Brien's The Phantom Empire ""a prose poem about the pleasures and distractions of movie-watching, "" ""an ambitiously literary attempt to write about the [mystery of the] medium as though it were a dream the author had just awakened from. "" Now, in The Browser's Ecstasy, O'Brien has written a prose poem about reading, a playful, epigrammatic nocturne upon the dream-state one falls into when ""lost in a book, "" upon the uncanny, trancelike pleasure of making silent marks on paper utter sounds inside one's head. We call The Browser's Ecstasy a ""Meditation on Reading, "" but like any truly original book-and especially the short book that goes both far and dee.
