The Paradise of Bachelors and the Tartarus of Maids is a short story written by American writer Herman Melville (1819-1891). It first appeared in the April 1855 edition of Harper s Magazine. Best known for his novel Moby-Dick, Melville wrote numerous books and short stories. A combination of two sketches, one set in the center of London s legal industry and the other in a New England paper factory, this story can be read as an early comment on globalization. In the first sketch, the London bachelors, all lawyers, scholars, or writers, enjoy a sumptuous meal in a cozy apartment near the Temple Bar. In the second sketch, the New England maids are young women working in a paper factory. Melville was inspired to write The Paradise of Bachelors by a trip to the Inns of Court in December 1849. The Tartarus of Maids was inspired by his visit to Carson s Old Red Paper Mill in Dalton, Massachusetts in January, 1851. Herman Melville (August 1, 1819 - September 28, 1891) was an American novelist, writer of...
