CHAPTER XXV SAFE AT LAST The Approach to Ta-chien-hi--My Pony Becomes Exhausted--Long Marches with Blistered Feet-- Chinese Conception of Europeans--Among Friends Once More--Conclusion. With the disappearance down the river of the brightly accoutred horses and their riders came a great perplexity, for my boys had a desire to follow them and endeavor to regain some of their lost property. In the drunken, unaccountable condition of the Tibetans such a course could only have been attended by more calamity. Feeling the force of this they desired to return to Chango and accuse the guilty ones before the magistrates; but, upon remembering that the men were unknown to them, and also that it would necessitate great delay in reaching Ta-chien-lu, and not having enough money to reimburse their loss, I told them I was willing to return to Chango with them--they would still, however, have to accompany me to the border, according to agreement, as the money had already been paid to their father. They appreciated my offer, and also the necessity of fulfilling their father s agreement with me, and upon receiving my promise to supply them with food for the journey, they decided to push on to Ta-chien-lu. With characteristically national desire to avoid meddling in other people s affairs, a Tibetan, whose house was near us though hidden by a hillock from view, came up after the fracas, and offered us the hospitality of his home. This we gladly accepted, as I...
